Caregiving Where Do You Fit?

*“There are only four kinds of people in the world.
Those who have been caregivers.
Those who are currently caregivers.
Those who will be caregivers, and
Those who will need a caregiver.”*

— Rosalyn Carter

Facts:

- About 25% of American families (nearly 66 million) serve as unpaid caregivers to adult family members, special needs children, life partners and others in need.
- Informal caregivers can be defined as those that are not professionally trained or compensated by institutions and that provide consistent care for family, friends, and loved ones.
- If caregivers were paid on the open market for their services, society would have to spend about $375 billion annually.
- Caregivers spend an average of 20 hours per week on caregiving; additional time is needed when the care recipient has more than one disability.

Facts:

- One-third of all caregivers describe their own health as fair to poor. Caregivers may have depression and are more likely to become physically ill.
- In 1900, average Americans could expect to live 47 years. Today, life expectancy is 75 years, but chronic illness is common in the later years. As a result, older people now require about two years of care prior to death.
- Caregivers often worry that they will not live longer than the person they care for.
- There are varying challenges to each caregiving role. Those can include financial strain, mental health struggles, difficulty navigating the caregiving role, lack of support to ease burden, giving up a job, and burnout.

Caregiving Trajectory

Role Reversal

Principles of Caregiving

- Caregiving doesn't ask if you're ready it just begins.
- Acknowledge that you are a caregiver.
- Love, honor, and value yourself including giving yourself grace - often.
- Seek, accept, and at times demand help. Have your "to-do" list ready.
- Caregiving will never be one-size-fits-all.
- Set boundaries when possible.
- Choose to take charge of your life.
- Put your oxygen mask on first.
- Remind yourself you are doing the best you can.

Juggling It All...Is This You?

Proactive Planning vs. Reactive Crisis Response

Benefits of Planning Ahead

- Peace of Mind
- Improved Access to Care
- Financial Preparedness
- Personalized Care

Challenges of Planning Ahead

- Resistance to Change
- Evolving Needs
- Complexity of Options

Proactive Planning vs. Reactive Crisis Response

Benefits of Crisis Response

- Immediate Action
- Clear Needs Assessment

Challenges of Crisis Response

- Limited Options
- Increased Stress
- Financial Strain
- Fragmented Care

Planning Means Better Care and Less Stress

Proactive planning allows for

- More personalized care
- Better financial preparation
- Reduced stress on families
- Earlier conversations
- Brings in all family members
- Time to work with professionals on a comprehensive plan
- Navigate complex elder care with greater confidence
- Ensure better outcome for your loved one

When possible...Take it off your plate

- Know your loved one's wishes. Prepare advance directives
- Get included in medical MyChart (POA)
- Set up a file system for important information to stay organized
- Home safety check & modification to prevent falls
- Create a budget & set up auto-pay for utilities, credit cards, etc.
- Educate loved one on scams – take every precaution available
- Order groceries online & have them delivered
- Utilize Uber or GoGo Grandparent for safe senior transportation
- Engage a neighbor to check-in and help when possible

Recognize that even with the best planning, crises may still occur
